

Participate in the “Write your qontent” Contest

If you are a translator (or aspiring translator) and you want to make a name for yourself in a stimulating company working on important projects, participate in the Write your qontent contest!

Demonstrate your writing skills in covering topics that narrates what revolves around the language industry.

The contest

Translators who submit to info@qontentgroup.com a personally written article on certain areas of the translation world will receive a bonus score when applying through our online recruiting platform, so please sign up if you haven't done it already.

In addition, the articles deemed best will be published on our site with the related signature.

Subject areas of interest

Content can be related to technical subject areas regarding specific sectors or be narrative in nature and tell the story of the translator's profession. Below are the reference topics for drafting your content:

Technical area

- Translations for the iGaming sector
- Translations for the Medical sector
- Translations for the Pharmaceutical sector
- Translations for the Technical-Industrial sector
- Translations for the Legal sector

Subject area related to Storytelling

- Challenges and case studies you have faced throughout your career related to a project you have overseen on one of the previous areas.

Regulation

- Sign up and apply through the platform: <http://tms.qontentgroup.com/questionario>
- Your article must have unpublished content, not already posted on the web
- Text can be written in any language

- Your article must be between 400 and 800 words with formatting suitable for the web. It must include its title and subtitle
- The evaluation criteria will be the originality of the subject matter, its relevance and captivating communication style
- The document must be accompanied by a permission to publish and use it for dissemination purposes
- Delivery deadline: 15/6/2021